

The Department of History and the L.R. Wilson Institute for Canadian History

Presents a Public Lecture

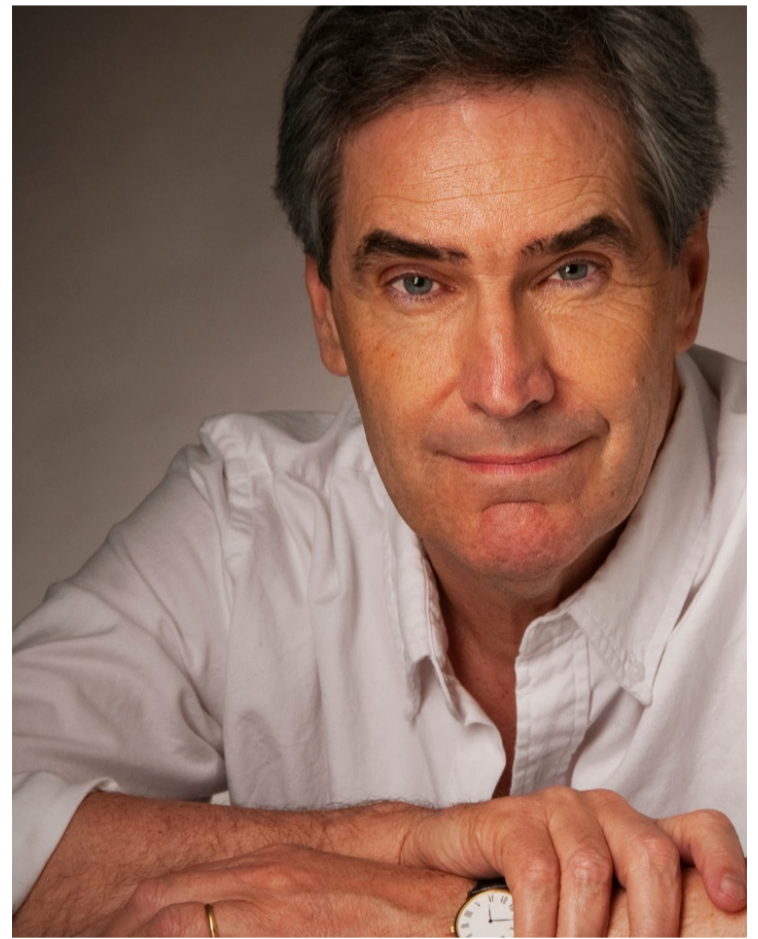

The Rights Revolution Revisited

How We Got Here, Where We Go Next

Dr. Michael Ignatieff

Senior Resident, Massey College
University of Toronto

Thursday 1 March, 7:30 p.m.
Great Hall, University Club

Dr. Ignatieff has written more than a dozen scholarly books, and among them the following acclaimed works on various aspects of human rights: Blood and Belonging: Journeys Into the New Nationalism (1994); Warrior's Honour: Ethnic War and the Modern Conscience (1997); The Rights Revolution (2000); Human Rights as Politics and Idolatry (2001); and edited, American Exceptionalism and Human Rights (2005).

All are welcome, but there is limited seating!

This lecture opens the “Taking Liberties” Workshop on historicizing human rights. Details about the rest of the workshop are available at:

<http://www.humanities.mcmaster.ca/~humanrights/index.html>